

You've taught me to live,
each day with all I have.
To love and to give,
everything, though it's all I've had.

From dawn until sunset,
I've known of greater grace.
Than what I could ever have thought,
through joy and through pain.

And though you're not beside me right now,
you're applauding from heaven.
I can hear the angel chorus,
a dancing celebration.

And I look forward to that time,
when I see you as I enter.
Through the gates opened wide,
And the throne in the centre.

A bride veiled in beauty,
with wedding bell chiming.
Singing from chandeliers,
no more sorrow, no more crying.

(Chorus)
I can hear the angel chorus,
a dancing celebration.

And when I arrive,
at eternity's door.
My tears will wipe away,
for death is no more.

I know who I am,
I'm the daughter of The King.
I'm the granddaughter of an angel,
who hears me when I sing.

(Chorus)
a dancing celebration.
